

Professional Development Workshop for Educators

Aquatic WILD: Adaptations for Survival

Saturday June 4, 2016

8:30 a.m. – 3:00 p.m.

This hands-on activity-based workshop is designed for school teachers, scout leaders, camp counselors, nature center staff, home educators and after school teachers. The workshop will highlight animals and plants inhabiting local wetland areas and their physical and behavioral adaptations for survival.

Project WILD is an award-winning interdisciplinary, conservation, and environmental education program that emphasizes wildlife, people, and the environment. The updated Aquatic program guide contains detailed activities for K- 12 educators and is correlated to Next Generation Science Standards Student Performance Expectations.

Workshop participants receive a copy of the Activity Guide, hands-on experience with and natural history information for local wetland animals and plants, 6 hours towards PDPs, as well as, a certificate of completion.

WILD facilitator is Mary Beers Education Director for the Thornton Burgess Society.

LOCATION: Green Briar Nature Center, 6 Discovery Hill Road, East Sandwich, MA

Cost is $35. Registration deadline is May 24, 2016.
